Marriage lottery puts limits on love

► City institutes unprecedented marriage lotto for July 24 ► Lovers and advocates alike are outraged

Queens resident Norma Virola, 36, waited for years to marry her girlfriend Crystal Gonzalez, 27.

When the state legalized gay marriage the two eagerly planned to tie the knot on Sunday, the first day the law goes into effect. But now, thanks to the city's marriage lottery, Virola and Gonzalez may have to wait even longer.

"We have been through a lot," said Virola. "We didn't want to wait. We wanted to get married the first day it was legal."

The city unveiled an unprecedented lottery system yesterday due to the high number of marriage applicants for this weekend. Out of the 2,661 couples who've applied to get married at City Hall, Mayor Michael Bloomberg announced that only a fraction of those will wed. Citywide, 764 couples, straight and gay, will be chosen at random to marry.

Virola and her sweetheart will be in suspense until this Friday at noon, when the city will notify them if they won a coveted spot in the wedding lottery.

"People's lives are in limbo," said Jake Goodman of advocacy group Queer Rising. "Why is the city so surprised there were going to be so many people wanting to get married? Everyone's going to want to get married on this historic day."

"They should have taken steps to make sure no one would be turned away," said New York state Sen. Adriano Espaillat.

HBO doc giving DA headaches

► Movie follows Sex Crimes Unit
 ► Lawyer for cops in rape case says footage could be grounds for mistrial

The Manhattan district attorney's office shouldn't have been lured by the bright lights of Hollywood, former prosecutors told Metro yesterday.

The office starred in the documentary, "Sex Crimes Unit," which can be seen on HBO. The show follows prosecutors as they litigate sex crime cases.

But the lead defense attorney for the two NYPD cops accused of rape is concerned prosecutors may have improperly discussed his clients' case on air.

The sentencing of Kenneth Moreno and Franklin Mata, acquitted of rape in May but convicted of official misconduct, was postponed until Aug. 8. Their attorney, Joe Tacopina, is now reviewing never-aired footage in hopes of prompting a mistrial.

Former New York City prosecutors confided they were surprised to see attorneys from the DA's office chatting so freely while the cameras were rolling. Former Brooklyn prosecutor Paul Callan said he would "absolutely not" have OK'd such a film.

"It's very dangerous," he said.

In fact, Callan said he himself carefully watched the HBO flick to see if prosecutors talked about one of his current cases: He is defending meteorologist Heidi Jones, accused of lying about a Central Park attack.

"I wanted to see if my case was being discussed. And had it been discussed, I would have made the same motion that the attorneys did in the cop case," he said.

Convincing took 15 years

NEW YORK. Documentary director Lisa Jackson told Metro it took her 15 years to convince former Manhattan DA Robert Morgenthau to allow the documentary. She said nothing made it into the movie unless the case was closed. "They were very careful," she said. ● METRO

'I would have been nervous'

NEW YORK. Former Brooklyn prosecutor Michael Weinstock said he would have signed on for a film but — "I would have been totally nervous. You're always careful, but especially if there are people watching over your shoulder with cameras."

FBI raids alleged hackers

► Homes searched in Brooklyn and Long Island ► Anonymous claims they hacked MasterCard ► Fourteen people arrested as part of FBI sting

FBI agents raided the New York homes of six alleged Anonymous hackers yesterday as part of a nationwide sweep.

FBI spokesman Peter Donald said it was part of an ongoing investigation into the infamous international hacking group.

At least 10 agents were at the Long Island home of Giordani Jordan, Fox News reported, supposedly a member of Anonymous.

The search warrant was for computers and computer accessories, and Fox News reported that agents took at least one laptop away after searching for nearly two hours.

No one was arrested in New York, but 35 raids nationwide netted 14 people in California, Florida and New Mexico. Many of those handcuffed were in their 20s and arrested for conspiracy and intentional damage to a protected computer. Anonymous has taken credit for hacking into websites like MasterCard, and a group associated with it, LulzSec, has been connected with the hacking of the CIA.

NEW YORK. Manhattan Borough President Scott Stringer has some problems with 311: He says pothole reports are slipping through the cracks of the city's complaint line. Stringer claims 311 lost

"It would appear that online 311 pothole complaints are, in fact, falling into a black hole," said Stringer.

He demanded answers from the Department of Information Technology and Telecommunications Commissioner on the disappearance. ● METRO/EAE

Cross-country trek to celebrate freedom

Eight-month trip

Diaz-Duran figures the trip to the Pacific Ocean will take about eight months.

"I expect to wear out at least four pairs of shoes," he said. "You can apparently get about 1,000 miles out of each pair."

"The biggest challenge will be being alone for long periods of time ... I'm out to meet people and see the country, not set any kind of endurance records." DIAZ-DURAN

► Political refugee walks across America as citizenship one step closer ► Left Guatemala due to death threats

Guatemalan-born Constantino Diaz-Duran is celebrating his process of becoming a U.S. citizen by hiking across the country, starting in Manhattan and ending in California.

"I want to go from one end to the other, and really get to know it," said Diaz-Duran, 31, 12 days into the effort, as he trekked across the Delaware River from New Jersey into Pennsylvania.

With his backpack, a tent, provisions and maps, he overnights out in the open, or with friends. He also has a letter from his priest, which he hopes will

Diaz-Duran came to the U.S. as a political refugee when he was 21, he said. Before he left Guatemala, he worked as the opinion editor at a newspaper there. He began receiving death threats after readers didn't agree with his comments on corruption.

He's a permanent resident of the United States now and will apply for full citizenship when he returns from his hike.

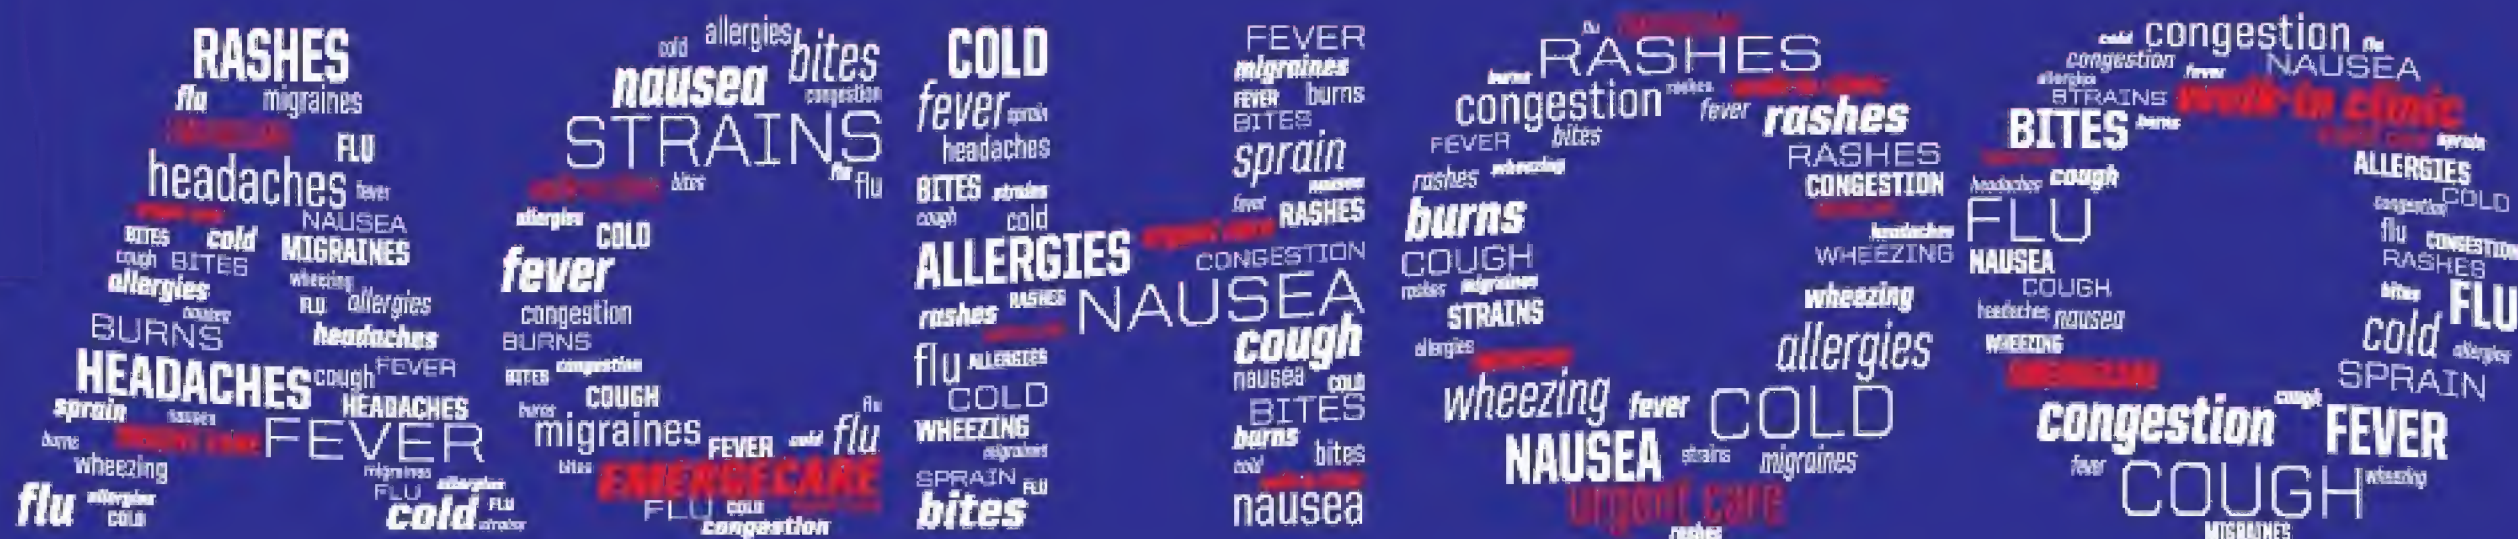

"It may sound like a cliché, but really, what I love most about America is the freedom," said Diaz-Duran. "To do the work I want, to write what I wish, express any opinion I hold, and not have to worry about who I will upset."

We also purchase watches that are NOT in working order.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Shuttle leaves station for last time

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. The last U.S. space shuttle departed the International Space Station yesterday, ending a 12-year program to build and service the orbital outpost, the primary legacy of NASA's shuttle fleet.

Shuttle Atlantis commander Chris Ferguson and pilot Doug Hurley gently pulsed their spaceship's steering jets at 2:28 a.m. EDT to pull away from the station as they sailed about 250 miles over the Pacific Ocean.

Japan: Progress at nuke plant

TOKYO. Japan's government said yesterday it was on track with efforts to take control of the crippled Fukushima nuclear plant but cautioned that a final cleanup of the worst nuclear accident since Chernobyl would take many years.

The update on progress to shut down six reactors at the Fukushima Daiichi plant comes four months after a massive earthquake and tsunami knocked out cooling systems at the complex and triggered a series of core meltdowns and explosions. REUTERS

Murdoch attacked during testimony

▶ Press baron apologizes for phone hacking scandal ▶ Says hearing was 'most humble day' of his life

Rupert Murdoch, unperturbed by a shaving cream pie attack in Britain's Parliament, apologized yesterday for the phone hacking scandal that has engulfed his empire but said he would not resign as he had himself been let down by others.

Murdoch, at times appearing all of his 80 years as he took lengthy pauses before answering questions alongside his 38-year-old son, said he had been ashamed by the allegations and won some sympathy for his apparent remorse.

In a hotly anticipated hearing, the most dramatic moment came after two and half hours when a man appeared to rise from the public area of the committee room and tried to hit the elder Murdoch with a dish of shaving cream.

As James Murdoch rose and police moved in, watched live by millions on television, Rupert Murdoch's 42-year-old wife Wendi Deng, who had been sitting right behind her husband, leapt forward to slap the man. He was hauled away and the session suspended.

Ten minutes later, the session resumed with an apology from the chairman and a jacketless Rupert Murdoch who continued to answer questions calmly.

At the start of proceedings, the elder Murdoch had rejected personal responsibility for the phone-hacking and corruption scandal but, with his son, said the company was deeply sorry and intended to resolve the issue as quickly as possible.

He said he was "shocked, appalled and ashamed" when he read two weeks ago of the case that has transformed the smoldering scandal into a "firestorm," in the words of Prime Minister David Cameron. It has shaken Britons' trust in the press, police and politicians, including Cameron himself.

Murdoch plays up humility, regret

Rupert Murdoch called it the most humble day of his life, and he can rarely have looked as ill at ease as he did during yesterday's parliamentary hearing.

The 80-year-old press baron spent much of the three-hour hearing with his head bowed, at times staring at the back of his hands, and rarely showed the passion and aggression on which he built his business over six decades.

He answered many questions in monosyllables and frequently left long pauses before uttering short replies, apologizing repeatedly for the hacking by his now defunct News of the World newspaper but shedding little light on what went on.

"This is the most humble day of my life," he said.

Brooks' testimony

▶ Rebekah Brooks, the former News of the World editor at the time some of the alleged hacking occurred, apologized for the scandal and denied knowing the private investigators at the heart of the allegations. She also dismissed suggestions she had ever made or sanctioned payments to the police.

Less money for students in economy

Almost two-thirds of U.S. shoppers plan to spend the same or less this back-to-school season as last year, a survey showed, in an early sign that retailers may not obtain a huge boost from the second-biggest selling season of the year.

About 65 percent of parents surveyed by America's Research Group said they did not plan to spend more during the key season that typically runs from late July into early September as students gear up for the upcoming school year.

While many retailers have already started advertising weeks ahead of school year's start, about 43 percent of parents said they plan to shop only a week or two before schools open, hoping to find better deals later in the season. Less than 7 percent of parents plan to shop two months before school.

Consumer spending accounts for almost 70 percent of the economy. REUTERS

Report: 30 percent in 12 states obese

WASHINGTON. At least 30 percent of people in 12 states were obese in 2010 — an increase of three states from a year earlier, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

No state reported that less than 20 percent of adults were obese, the Atlanta-based agency said yesterday in a statement. That means no state met the national Healthy People 2010 goal to lower the prevalence to 15 percent.

29.4% The South had the highest rate of obesity, with 29.4 percent; the West had the lowest, at 24.1 percent.

Medicare and Medicaid each spend more than 20 percent of their budgets to treat illnesses related to avoidable health risks like obesity, according to the Trust for America's Health and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. BLOOMBERG

New homes shooting up

WASHINGTON. Groundbreaking for homes scaled a six-month high in June, partly reflecting growing demand for rental apartments, a government report showed yesterday.

The Commerce Department said housing starts increased 14.6 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 629,000 units, the highest level since January, as groundbreaking for multi-family units soared 30.4 percent. REUTERS

Breaking news: J. Lo is sexy

Even stranger than the fact that Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony got married is this little bit of gossip about one of the reasons they're splitting up: He thought J. Lo was too sexy.

It seems that, in the process of begging for the title of Mr. Jennifer Lopez, Anthony forgot he was marrying the woman who wore That Dress. "He would make her feel terrible about herself if she wanted to wear something sexy," a source tells UsMagazine.com. "He likes her to dress in a demure, 'wife' style. He hated the fact that she was a sex symbol."

How many marriages go downhill because the mother of 3-year-old twins is too sexy? Prepare yourselves: J-to-the-L-O is going to be owning this irreconcilable difference on every red carpet that'll have her.

Lady Gaga does it for the children

Let it never be said that Lady Gaga didn't put on a show. When she stopped by Howard Stern's radio show yesterday, she denied lip syncing live: "You think I'm going to ask these sweet 14-year-olds to ask their parents to buy a $100 ticket then run around in latex and lip sync? No way."

Not that she's taking any cheap shots at her peers who famously do. When asked how she felt about writing songs that made other people famous before she became a household name/pest, she played nice. "Fricking Britney Spears sang my record. I was doing backflips and ordering drinks when I heard she was going to be recording my song."

Angie is in charge

Don't expect Angelina Jolie to be wearing a sensible dress in the kitchen anytime soon. In the Pitt-Jolie house, she's in charge, according to E!

Online. "She rules him," says an anonymous "friend" of Brad to the site. "You can never put anything past that Angie, as she's the one calling the shots." Those are shots we're kind of afraid to even write about.

Talking points

Lovato's new love interest?

Demi Lovato and Ryan Phillippe have reportedly been quietly seeing each other over the last few months, but the actor's recent drama with rumored baby mama Alexis Knapp has cooled things off between them, according to E! Online. A source says that Lovato and Phillippe's relationship "was really hot and heavy for a while," but the Disney star didn't know Phillippe was going to be a father with Knapp's baby "until it basically happened. It kind of threw her for a loop." The pair have been on a break since Knapp gave birth two weeks ago, the source says.

Perks of being a Beckham

Having David Beckham as a dad certainly has its benefits, as Brooklyn, Romeo and ► Talk about a good seat.

Cruz Beckham are set to enjoy a private concert by their favorite singer, Justin Bieber, according to Hollyscoop. "I've agreed to give the boys a private concert at their house — if David gives me some private soccer lessons," Bieber says. "He told me how happy it would make the boys, so I had to say yes." The pop star could also include girlfriend Selena Gomez in the gig, he admits: "Maybe now [that] they have a girl, Selena will have to come too, and dedicate a song to Harper."

On this tour, you let fans select the set lists. Any surprises? No. I mean, a lot of the songs we knew were gonna be on there, obviously like "Girls, Girls, Girls" and "Wild Side" and "[Dr.] Feel-good" and "Home Sweet Home." ... But some of them, like "Smokin' in the Boys Room" was a big fan favorite. We hadn't played that in a long time. And then "Too Young To Fall In Love," which we hadn't played in like 20 years. Is that because you reached an age where you weren't too young to fall in love? Well, that song was written 25 years ago. [Laughs] It's just a song, man. Nikki wrote a lot of the songs. When you sing those words after all these years, do you get something new out of it? Well, no. I mean, I'm performing. I'm not acting out those words, I'm singing a song. ... That's all. Has life on the road slowed down over the years, or is it still like the Crue bio, "The Dirt: Confessions of the World's Most Notorious Rock Band"? Well, we were a young band. We've been together for 30 years now, you know. ... We're not drug addicts like we were. There are things that you do when you're 20 years old you don't do when you're 50.

pat.healy@metro.us

Vince Neil is not a man of many words. This isn't surprising, considering that most of the words he sings with Motley Crue were written by Nikki Sixx anyway. We spoke with Neil from his tour bus in Tampa.

I've read that you guys have something called a drum roller coaster on this tour. How has that been working?

Oh it's great. I mean, people are loving it. It's obviously something different.

When you're rehearsing for the tour, at what point does something like a drum roller coaster come into the picture? At the very end. ... Our very first U.S. show was Dallas, so we set up in the place where we were playing for like three days, then rehearsed the new set. We did pyro, the roller coaster and then everything else.

► She talks us through her wardrobe changes

Before she went solo, Kelly Rowland spent her career dressed in blingy costumes designed to keep you entertained — shimmery, mermaid-like dresses with flesh revealing cut-outs or ripped, GI Jane-style army fatigues with camouflage Daisy Dukes. "I've never been afraid to take any risks," she admits over the phone from London, where she's promoting her new album, "Here I Am," and preparing to join the U.K. X-Factor judging panel.

"My personal style has grown in a way where I know what works for me. You have to try different things out to get it right," she says of her evolution from her days as one-third of Destiny's Child to now. "Before, I was about what's 'in' right now. But now, I buy to collect pieces that will be with me forever."

The Texan's new wardrobe is much more refined and focused, thanks to her habit of reading Style.com each night ("it relaxes me") and attending runway shows during the collections. She talks about the trends with the confidence of a seasoned market editor: "I love how everything is about opulence and decadence right now. I love how that has come back. And it's great to see the bold colors from spring and summer carrying over into fall," she adds.

Rowland's been wearing Stella McCartney and Chloe the most, lately, and has a long-time obsession with Alexander McQueen. All three are brands with English creative directors — is Britain rubbing off on her? "I love the U.K., period. But I've grown to appreciate the art and creativity of British fashion."

Should you do the Dukan?

► 'The latest reboot of the low-carb dieting philosophy' is making waves ► Kate Middleton and J. Lo are fans ► Thinking of starting the Dukan Diet? Get ready to give up pasta until stage three.

STOCKMATE

When Carolyn Crosier read about Kate Middleton adopting the Dukan plan for her pre-wedding diet, she says she was hooked 100 percent. Then, her colleague Heidi Bergos got on board.

"The fact that Kate Middleton, J. Lo and Giselle all followed Dukan's plan made me want to try it," Bergos says.

Soon, two more colleagues who work in the Charles Hotel's administration offices in Cambridge, Mass., were eating up the Dukan Diet, so to speak. French nutritionist Pierre Dukan developed the diet, documenting it in his best-selling book, "The Dukan Diet," and the Duchess of Cambridge, Kate, sealed its fate as this year's to-do diet.

"The Dukan Diet is the latest reboot of the low-carb dieting philosophy," says licensed nutritionist Monica Reinagel, author of "Nutrition Diva's Secrets for a

Keep in mind ...

The diet is not without its disadvantages.

► "The early phases of the diet are extremely restrictive and nutritionally imbalanced," Reinagel says. "While it offers some advantages like not having to count calories or limit portions (or stop eating until you want to), these sort of extreme programs have a very poor track record for long-term success."

Healthy Diet." "The twist is that unlike the Atkins approach, the Dukan Diet has you limit fats as well. While it is usually successful in producing quick weight loss, it has many of the same drawbacks as Atkins."

The protein-heavy diet is split into four phases: The Attack, The Cruise, The Consolidation and The Stabilization. In the attack phase, dieters are set up to shed about five pounds very rapidly, in a week or less. The cruise phase implements a diet of certain vegetables, with the goal weight loss being approximately two pounds per week. The consolidation phase reincorporates breads, cheese and starches. And the stabilization phase, which is designed to be implemented for the rest of the dieter's life, allows dieters to eat almost anything they want.

Since starting Dukan in April, Bergos lost 15 pounds and Crosier lost 11 pounds. Both gained only a couple back.

"The no-alcohol part is the toughest! Everything becomes Du-Can and Du-Can't," jokes Crosier. "It changes what you think about food as far as fuel versus indulgence."

8 Rules of the booty call

► It's a bad idea, say Em & Lo, but they know that's not going to stop you ► If you must engage, at least heed this advice ► No phone calls!

We've all been there: Out on the town, feeling good after a cocktail or five, you don't want to go home yet and no one has made you any offers you can't refuse. So you fish out your phone to daringly (read: desperately) see if one of your acquaintances might take sexual pity on you. It's a recipe for disaster. But if you insist on doing it again (and you know you will), follow these rules to ease everyone's pain:

Bedfellows

EM & LO

Text, don't call: Text messages were practically invented for booty calls! Slurring goes unnoticed, grammar is irrelevant and if the person's not around, you won't embarrass yourself with a rambling voice mail message.

When in doubt, be clever rather than crass: A little cheeky banter, some playful innuendo, a compliment or two to fluff up the ego (and other body parts) will usually work way better than a cheap crotch shot.

Be buzzed, not blotto: If you're too drunk to correctly spell the name of your potential partner, to find your own cell phone or to perform sexually, then you're too drunk for a decent booty call.

Choose a designated dialer: If you're in the habit of drunk-dialing the wrong kind of booty call (that ex you can't get over, your boss, etc.)

Don't do drive-bys

► Stopping by their place at 2 a.m. because you don't have their number or your phone is dead is generally a terrible idea. We'll bet you a hundred bucks they're either fast asleep or entertaining someone else.

then hand a good friend your phone at the beginning of the night and give that person permission to cut you off — tequila- or text-wise — at any time.

Try take-out booty: Convincing someone to leave a bar to come service you in your bed is highly underrated.

Be thoughtful with your calls: Before you make the call, think about what's going on with your intended: Do they have a big project they're preparing for? Do they have to get up early? Are they already asleep? Are they sober? Do they have family visiting? If the answer to any of these is yes, think twice about hitting "send." Engage in booty, not brunch: When daylight hits, you can test the waters for morning sex, but don't push your luck by requesting breakfast (especially not in bed).

Em & Lo's latest book is "SEX: How to Do Everything." Visit EMandLO.com for your daily dose of sex, love, and everything in between.

► Before you hit "send," follow these rules.

Today in medicine

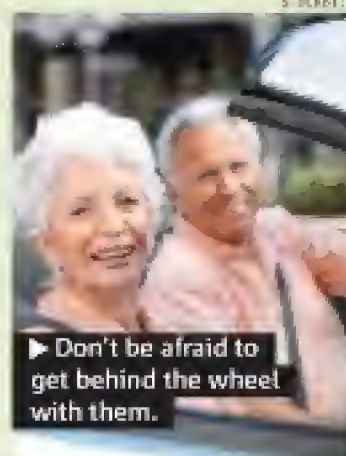

Obesity and marriage

Study subjects: 169 newlywed couples under the age of 35

Location of study: U.S.

Results: Fox News reports that "researchers found men who had a [higher body mass index] (BMI) than their wives were happier at the end of the four years. In essence, these husbands were more satisfied in their relationships when their wives were skinnier — and the thinner wives were also significantly happier than other women in the study who had the same BMI as their husbands or higher."

Significance: "Women of any size can be happy in their relationships with the right partner," says researcher Andrea Melzer. "It's relative weight that matters, not absolute weight. It's not that they have to be small."

► Don't be afraid to get behind the wheel with them.

Grandparent versus parent drivers

Study subjects: 12,000 motor vehicle accidents involving children under age 15

Location of study: U.S.

Results: "A new study finds that kids may be safer when their grandparents drive than when mom and dad are behind the wheel," reports MSNBC.com. The journal Pediatrics found that "children in car crashes with grandparent drivers had half the risk of being injured as kids riding with their parents."

Significance: "About the only key difference between grandparents and parents involved the proper use of car-safety seats," concluded the article.

Binge drinking and brain development

Study subjects: Teenagers

Location of study: U.S.

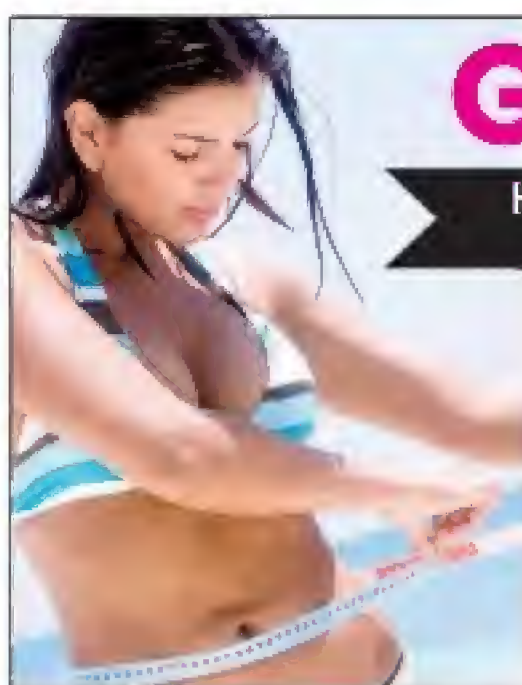

Results: "Binge drinking impairs the spatial working memory of teenagers. Girls appear especially vulnerable to these effects," reports WebMD. "Spatial working memory is the ability to perceive the space around you, remember and work with this information to perform a task, such as using a map or driving a car."

Significance: Researchers concluded "that teenage girls may be more vulnerable to the toxic effects of binge drinking on the brain while males may be more resilient."

Democrats will indeed pay tax

RE: "DEMS, PUT YOUR MONEY TO WORK": Last I checked, tax forms do not ask for party affiliation. If we raise taxes on the rich, that will include the Obamas, the Kennedys and all the other rich Democrats that are publicly calling to raise their taxes.

JONATHAN BEATRICE, VIA E-MAIL

Like a typical right winger, Joan Bachman believes the national debt should be paid down by people who didn't cause it. I wonder if Ms. Bachman is any relation to the crazy woman in Minnesota. She seems to have the same mindset.

TERRY M. CALLEN, VIA E-MAIL

That's all we seem to hear about today, raising the debt ceiling, taxes, out-of-control federal spending. There is already too much money flowing into Washington, it's a scandal all by itself. What the government needs is less money, not more. Cut spending. Are you listening?!

FRANK ST GEORGE, NEW YORK

Lawmakers are to blame

RE: "MILITARY NOT THE CULT PRIT": The incompetence

of our intelligence agencies and our military adventurism are to blame for 9/11. Don't blame our troops; blame presidents and impotent Congresses who go to war without declarations and who feel the need to intervene in the internal affairs of foreign nations.

Cross words: Moon also rises

The crossword for 18 July has the clue "Moonless period" and demands for the answer "daytime." This is utterly erroneous. As those who look up at the sky now and then are aware, the moon is often visible during the day, and often invisible at night. This is for the simple reason that the Earth spins on its axis every 24 hours while the moon orbits the Earth only once every 28 days.

Horoscope

Cancer June 21-July 22. Even if you believe your way of doing something is superior to that of others, don't impose your ideas on them. Listen, because you may learn a better way of accomplishing the goal.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Unless you take time to study what is involved, you could make a commitment that you'll regret. There might be a lot more to the job than it seems.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Borrowing something of value might be a bad idea, but, if for some reason you must, be extremely careful about how the object is handled.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you're entertaining at your place and a guest brings along an uninvited friend who turns out to be a jerk, graciously ignore it. It could ruin the whole affair if it becomes an issue.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Should a dirty job be foisted upon you, take it in stride as best as you can. It will only make the situation worse if you air it out in front of others.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Circumstances similar to ones that existed in the past when you made a bad mistake might be occurring again. Take your cues from what you learned and handle it differently.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. No one can live up to your expectations if your demands are unreasonable. Be honest about what you want, and don't ask another to do your job.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Should a co-worker who is usually easy to get along with be a little testy, be forgiving, not vindictive. Toss aside all thoughts of getting even.

Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. There is a good chance that an excursion that wasn't intended to be expensive could quickly get out of hand. Don't be a tightwad, but don't be foolishly extravagant either.

Aries March 21-April 19. It isn't enough to have good intentions, you must think things through before simply reacting. Otherwise you could unintentionally do something that others would find offensive.

Taurus April 20-May 20. Keeping proper records could become imperative when you are called on the carpet to explain what and why you did something. If you want to win your case, leave nothing to memory.

Gemini May 21-June 20. Mixing business with pleasure might turn out to be a bad mistake when a member of your group overdoses on food or wine. It won't generate the impression you wanted to make.

Semi-Colon

The Ubaldo option

YANKEES. If the decision is made that Colon — or any starter — won't be viable down the stretch and in the playoffs, the name being discussed in trade rumors is Colorado's Ubaldo Jimenez.

Jimenez is a year removed from winning 19 games, pitching a no-hitter and averaging 96 miles per hour on his fastball.

They have had scouts watching Jimenez, however, that trade doesn't appear likely since the asking price could be prized catching prospect Jesus Montero, and pitchers Manny Banuelos, Dellin Betances or Ivan Nova. METRO/LF

The Yankees figured heading into the season that if they could get 15 starts from Bartolo Colon, it was worth the small risk.

Perhaps it is not coincidental that Colon will reach 15 starts right before the trade deadline or that his last two starts have been disastrous.

The Yankees are left to wonder if it is a blip or if reality is setting in on a pitcher who had not pitched in two years and who had not pitched consistently well since winning the Cy Young Award six years ago.

If it is not a blip, then the question is where do the Yankees go from here.

"He didn't have his good fastball. He didn't have the command he usually has,"

On TV today

Yankees at Rays
7:10 p.m., YES

"I don't ever go through the what-ifs, what if you get this guy or that guy."

JOE GIRARDI, ON THE POSSIBILITY OF TRADING FOR A PITCHER

Yankees manager Joe Girardi said after Colon's first bad start. "He just wasn't sharp tonight and you're going to run through starts like that."

While the Yankees were awful defensively as Toronto scored eight runs — five unearned — in the first inning, Colon would be best served to deliver something similar to what most of his first 11 starts looked like.

Colon frequently pumped in 95 mph fastballs, even in the late innings, during the first half.

In his second start off the DL, his 16 four-seam fastballs averaged 92 mph and his 16 two-seam fastballs averaged 90.3 mph.

Manager Joe Girardi said he didn't want to play the what-if game with reporters asking about a trade for starting pitching.

Instead of the what-ifs, the Yankees would like to say they can count on the good Colon.

Smith hopes for return to Jets

► With lockout nearing end, free agency will come fast and furious

Eric Smith was one of the few players in the Jets locker room last season without a nickname. The soft-spoken safety is content sitting in the corner of the locker room and quietly watching as his teammates talk, shout and pull pranks.

Lockout talks progressing

NFL Members of the NFLPA and representatives from all 32 teams are reportedly in Washington today, ready if needed, to sign a CBA.

The final hurdle to ending the lockout is settling the multiple lawsuits filed by players still in court. METRO

But now, Smith has a nickname. Just call him "Continental Shelf."

The nickname came about this offseason as Smith, set to enter his sixth year in the league, has added 12 pounds of muscle to his frame. Smith has spent the past couple weeks training with Jets teammates, including Bart Scott and Jericho Cotchery, at TEST Sports Clubs.

TEST's owner Brian Martin points to Smith's trapezius muscle and gives it a squeeze. The Jets safety shows the line of muscle around his neck.

"It's like the continental shelf, right here," Martin said laughing. "It's unbelievable. His teammates can't believe how big he's gotten this offseason."

"It was a good opportunity for me to get some work in," Smith told Metro. "I miss being around these guys and it was good to get football work in."

As a part of one of the league's best defenses,

Smith hopes to be a part of the Jets next year.

"I'd definitely like to be here, be a Jet next year," Smith said. "Especially with the defense we had last year." KRISTIAN DYER

NBA schedules

Nets schedule last in Jersey

The Nets have one more go around before they become Brooklyn's finest.

The NBA released the 2011-12 schedule yesterday — barring a prolonged lockout.

The Nets will open in the nation's capital against John Wall and the Wizards Nov. 2. They get right down to facing the defending conference champions a week later.

They host Dallas Nov. 9, followed by a trip to Miami two days later.

Their final (regular season) game in Newark will be April 18 against the Bulls. METRO

Knicks open with LeBron

The Knicks know who they will be facing next year. That is, if they will be facing anyone.

The NBA released the 2011-12 schedule yesterday in the midst of the league's lockout.

If you are an optimist though the Knicks will be opening their season Nov. 2 as they play host to LeBron James and the Heat at 8 p.m.

The Knicks will have 29 appearances on national television, including a Christmas Day game against the Celtics on ESPN at noon.

They host the defending champion Mavericks Feb. 19. METRO

Apartment search countdown

► Our real estate insider, Jared Kleinstein of StreetEasy.com, breaks down your apartment-search game plan ► How to find your dream pad no matter your time frame

Search all year

If you even have a small inkling that you could move at the end of your lease or earlier, keep your eyes and ears peeled. Whenever you're at a friend's building and you like the place, take down the address and/or management company's name. If you'll be living with roommates or a spouse, encourage them to do the same, possibly on a shared Google Doc. Also, play around on real estate websites looking at market prices in the area. Sites such as StreetEasy.com and NYbits.com post listings with only real addresses.

More tips from the pros

"Keep your paperwork ready," says Takki Yamaguchi, a sales agent at Town Residential. "Have copies of your two most current bank statements, an employment verification letter and the first two pages of your tax returns. Also, try to get a reference from your landlord with a company letterhead. Bug them ahead of time; make sure it shows how long you've been living there and [that] you have been in good financial standing."

Countdown

If you have 60-45 days:

Use this time to figure out exactly what you're looking for, and make sure any roommate organization is solved. You should be ready to expand your budget 15 percent as well as expand the radius of your neighborhood search a few blocks to the North, East, South and West of where you want to be. This is NYC, so when you find an apartment you love, you can't drag your feet because it's more than a few blocks away from your favorite park.

The best time to look for properties is 45 days before your move-in date; it's when brokers are allowed to start posting their listings for the next month. Scour the Internet, being mindful of scams (never write a check until you've seen the unit), and if you see a place that looks like a good fit, call the listing agent or management company immediately to schedule a visit. Many of the best places will be gone within a day of being listed. For every place you see, make sure you are aware of any fees, which are typically 15 percent, but often can be negotiated down to one month's rent, depending on who you're working with.

Two weeks until move-in:

Now you're in crunch time. Rather than trying to manage your own search, contact a rental broker. Real estate agents have the time, contacts and scheduling powers that you may not have at this juncture. Find an agent based on recommendations from friend or co-workers. Also, take your search to social media sites such as Facebook or Twitter.

NY sellers are getting greedy

PETER RIVKO

► Convinced of recovery, some sellers are trying to leapfrog comps

When the real estate market crashed, tales of lowball offers abounded in New York: Buyers were demanding discounts of up to 30 percent off asking prices.

But in this steadier, if somewhat uncertain market, some say another frustration has emerged. Sellers, emboldened by the market's relative improvement, are now the ones

"I don't think sellers realize how closely tied they are to what's sold in the building. That comp is never going to go away."

pushing their luck.

While brokers and analysts agree that the market is still fragile, they say some sellers are getting greedy.

"Some sellers are demanding unrealistic prices," said Patricia Levan, president of Levan Real Estate.

Levan recently parted ways with a client who was selling a condo unit at 212 E. 47th St. The apartment — which was originally listed at $765,000 and later reduced to $745,000 — had no offers. The problem, Levan said, was that an apartment on the same line (and renovated) had sold for $675,000 in the fall. The seller, however, wrote off that lower comparable and refused to lower the price. Eventually, the seller pulled

Experts are not quite as optimistic as the sellers

Jonathan Miller, president and CEO of the appraisal and consulting firm Miller Samuel, refused to even use the word "recovery" to describe the current market.

"It's a consistent, stable market — not a booming market — certainly far better than it was a couple years ago, and the word for that is 'rebound,' not 'recovery,'" Miller said, adding, "When I hear the word 'recovery,' to me it implies that we've recovered, and the market's going to go up now, and I contend that we don't really know."

the unit off the market.

The case, Levan said, illustrates that more sellers are rejecting sales comps from the downturn because they believe they can find buyers to pay more.

"I don't think sellers realize how closely tied they are to what's sold in their building," she said. "That comp is really never going to go away. Maybe in a really good market it'll be more overlooked, but right now, it's not." JAKE MOONEY/THE REAL DEAL

'Downtown Chic' on

► Cortney Novogratz clues us in on the funky, cool aesthetic she shares with her husband ► Their new show on HGTV has even more tips for hip looks that won't break the bank

Last year on Bravo's "9 by Design," we watched Cortney Novogratz redecorate and flip multimillion dollar houses with hubby Robert, star in a reality show (you can now catch the trendy family in their new HGTV gig "Home by Novogratz," Saturday nights at 10) and put out a book, "Downtown Chic," all while being a mom to seven — yes, seven! — children. The lady is Superwoman. We happily take notes as she teaches us how to attack a flea market like a DWR clearance sale.

Express yourself

"All of the retail shops have the same items, and so for our homes and our wardrobes to be unique, we have to find one-of-a-kind pieces, which the flea market allows us. You'll really like it if someone comes to your home and they can tell who you are, and your house is a reflection of who you are."

► Cortney Novogratz

The rules

"I always bring cash. And there is nothing wrong with saying, 'Oh, I would like this to be cheaper. Can you give me a better deal?' Most people will negotiate with you — so never ever settle with the initial price."

Flea marketing with kids

"With my daughters, or any other children for that matter, kids get tired. So [to keep them interested], we started collecting something together. They've been collecting paintings of girls and women, which we keep adding to a wall. So that's fun, and it bought me a little more time to shop while they would look for those paintings."

Design Ideas

▶ Mirrors look cool and add depth to a room.

Don't know where to start? Novogratz offers simple design ideas to keep in mind while navigating a flea market.

1. Hooks. "You can go to the chain store and buy them, but if you find antique hooks — which you can put on the back of your door, or in the bathroom or hang jewelry from — they're going to be something unique and different."

2. Mirrors. "Buy a bunch of different funky mirrors. Like for one weekend, you may find an old, antique mirror, and for the next weekend, you find a mirror that is from the '50s, and you can create a collage in your apartment. This will also make the room seem a little bigger and deeper. And each time you look in that mirror, you're going to think about which flea market you got it from and the history behind it."

3. Old baskets. "Whether it's a basket that used to hold mail or newspaper, you can reinvent it with some paint and lacquer. Then you can store toilet paper in it — or your towels or your shoes. It's something cool and different."

Favorite fleas

▶ "I like the one in Fort Green, Brooklyn [Brooklyn Flea]. My kitchen chairs came from there, but now it is gotten a little more 'food-y,' and I'm struggling with that."

▶ "Brimfield, in Massachusetts. I can spend days there."

▶ "Dixie Highway, in West Palm Beach. There are tons of antiques dealers there."

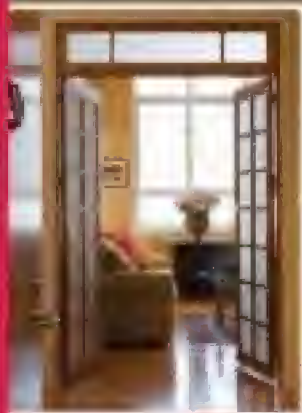

▶ "The Hamptons has tag sales every weekend. They run in the newspaper. You need to get there early though, because the better things go fast."
